3.125 (a)

FACILITIES, GENERAL.

(a) Structural strength. The facility must be constructed of such material and of such strength as appropriate for the animals involved. The indoor and outdoor housing facilities shall be structurally sound and shall be maintained in good repair to protect the animals from injury and to contain the animals.

*The height of the chain link fence surrounding the tiger enclosures is inadequate. The fence surrounding the licensee's tigers is 12 feet high without a kick-in, which could result in escape of the animals. The enclosures must be designed and constructed to ensure that the animals will be securely contained under all circumstances. The licensee must replace or modify the tiger enclosures by making the fence higher or by adding a kick-in so that they will securely contain the animals at all times. This affects 4 tigers.

To be corrected by February 8, 2011.

3.131 (c)

REPEAT

SANITATION.

(c) Housekeeping. Premises (buildings and grounds) shall be kept clean and in good repair in order to protect the animals from injury and to facilitate the prescribed husbandry practices set forth in this subpart. Accumulations of trash shall be placed in designated areas and cleared as necessary to protect the health of the animals.

Some of the animal enclosures and surrounding areas had clutter, dirt, and excessive spider webs. The building that housed the indoor living area of one mountain lion and two tigers had an excessive number of items that were unrelated to the care of the animals. These items were scattered around, unorganized, and had accumulation of excessive dust. The indoor living area of this mountain lion also had excessive dirt and spider webs. The primary enclosure of one bobcat had accumulations of spider webs. Excessive clutter allows the accumulation of dirt and provides hiding areas for rodents and insects, which can compromise the health of the animals. The licensee should remove unnecessary items and clean these areas to facilitate husbandry practices. The licensee should establish and maintain a program to keep areas free of clutter and debris. This affects one bobcat, one mountain lion, and two tigers.
